John Smith
NCAA

Dear John Smith:

I am writing because I am interested in working with the NCAA to work with student athletes to find better ways to accommodate them as they work toward their desired degrees while also playing a collegiate sport. There is no doubt that student athletes face additional challenges on their path to their graduation and I think that I could help the NCAA find a way to increase the graduation rate of student athletes.

I have hosted many informational seminars for student athletes and their families and I have received responses that state that I made a difference in the course that they have taken and have heard success stories from the people I have helped. I am excited to hear back with your decision.

Sincerely,

Colton Lamprey
